

Dear Parents,

We're excited to share something new with our school community: the St. Carlo Parent Network (SCPN). A chapter is launching here at [name of your school], and we'd love to tell you what it's all about and invite you to get involved.

SCPN mission: Inspired by St. Carlo Acutis, we are a network of parents united in building community, raising awareness, and sharing insights as we navigate complex and personal decisions about devices and digital media in an effort to protect and preserve childhood.

Technology is a powerful tool, but one that can sometimes work against us and especially our kids - from endless scrolling and YouTube rabbit holes to the social pressures of group chats, gaming, and social media.

Every family handles these realities differently. SCPN is not about judgment or one-size-fits-all solutions. It's about connection, awareness, and thoughtful decision-making – because raising kids in a digital age shouldn't feel like something we have to do alone.

As a national organization, SCPN offers free, ready-to-use resources and ideas to help local chapters foster meaningful conversations and community. Here at [school name], that could mean starting a guided book club or discussion group; organizing the Wait Until 8th pledge for those parents who want to delay smartphones together; learning about our patron saint, St. Carlo Acutis; trying out a family “unplugging” challenge during Advent or Lent; showcasing kid-friendly phones; etc.

We invite you to join us at our callout meeting to learn more, share your ideas, and see how SCPN might serve families in our community.

With hope and gratitude,
